

LINGERING SCARS FROM PERSONAL INJURY

There is more than one type of scarring that can occur from a personal injury. While most people will focus on the physical aspect, there is also emotional scarring that can occur. Physical scars may be the only visible scars, but both types of scarring can be important in your claim.

Physical Scars

Physical scars can occur from a dog bite, lacerations in a car accident, or after surgery from an injury.

Scars can factor into your personal injury claim. There are many different details of a scar that can impact the outcome of your settlement:

- The age of the claimant
- Where on the body the scar is located
- The color and size of the scar
- The permanence of the scar

For example, a person with facial scarring is affected differently than a person with scarring on an area of the body that is normally hidden, like the knee.

One way to learn the value of a scar is to ask a medical professional if the scar could be removed and what the cost would be of that procedure.

In addition to visibility, a scar that is located on a joint or area of the body that flexes could cause the skin to become stiff and could then impact mobility of the affected area.

Emotional Scars

Oftentimes, an incident or accident that causes physical injuries can leave a person with emotional scars in the form of emotional distress.

Signs of emotional distress can include:

- Trouble sleeping
- Anxiety
- Frustration
- Anger

One way to handle these feelings are to speak with a medical professional, such as a counselor or therapist. Not only will it help you to work through your grief, it will help provide well-documented evidence of the emotional impact the injury had on you.

Hankey Law Office Welcomes New Lawyer

Daniel Randolph joined the Hankey Law Office as an associate in 2018. His primary practice areas are Social Security Disability and Personal Injury.

Originally from Kokomo, Daniel lives in Fishers with his wife and three children, although he returns to his hometown every chance he gets to visit family and stay connected to his roots.

Law is Daniel's second career, as he spent 14 years as a General Manager and Corporate Trainer in the restaurant industry, where he earned several leadership and operational excellence awards. In December 2017, he earned his Juris Doctorate from Indiana University Robert H. McKinney School of Law, as well as a Graduate Certificate in Criminal Law.

While in law school, Daniel interned at Indiana Legal Services in the Immigrants and Language Rights Center. He was also a law clerk for Indiana Legal Services in the Migrant Farmworker Law Center while also working as a law clerk at another firm.

In addition to his comprehensive resume, he was also very active in law school, which he completed in two and a half years. In school, he acted as co-founder of the Student Immigration Law Society and earned a Silver Level Pro Bono Award for pro bono service hours.

He is a parishioner at Our Lady of Mount Carmel and volunteers his time to assist with anything involving his children – as they take up most of his free time – including track events, choir events, and chaperoning. Daniel also continues to volunteer with Indiana Legal Services in immigration and human trafficking matters. In his free time, Daniel likes cooking, reading, and enjoying the outdoors.

Daniel speaks Spanish and will be leading our efforts to serve the Spanish speaking population in matters of Social Security Disability, as well as personal injury.

Lilly Cares & Other Low-Cost Prescriptions

It is important to us that our clients are aware of resources that may ease the burden of their disability. One of the largest expenses we often hear about is the price of prescription medications. It is often difficult to afford prescription medications for those who are unable to work.

The Lilly Cares Foundation, Inc. (a nonprofit associated with Eli Lilly and Company, LLC) offers no-cost assistance to qualified individuals in obtaining certain Lilly-manufactured medications for free. These include: Alimta, Humulin, Jardiance, Prozac, Trulicity, Zyprexa, and many others.

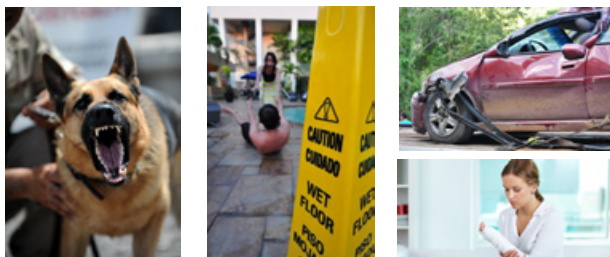

Eligible applicants must be permanent, legal residents of the United States and Puerto Rico, not enrolled in or eligible for Medicaid or VA benefits, and meet some additional income and insurance requirements. For a full list of covered medications and to learn more about the program, visit www.lillycares.com or call toll free at 1-800-545-6962.

For those not eligible for the Lilly Cares program, there are still options out there, including WalMart's low cost prescriptions. A majority of the medications are $4 for 30 days or an optional 90-day supply for $10. Insurance is not needed to participate in the program.

Walmart has the specific medications in the program listed on their website by diagnosis. The categories are: Allergies & Cold and Flu, Antibiotics, Arthritis & Pain, Asthma, Cholesterol, Diabetes, Fungal Infections, Gastrointestinal Health, Glaucoma & Eye Care, Heart Health & Blood Pressure, Men's Health, Mental Health, Skin Conditions, Thyroid Conditions, Viruses, Vitamins & Nutritional Health, and Women's Health.

Another option is to go to GoodRx.com. It will show you the cost of your medication at different pharmacies, and sometimes even offers coupons for your medication.
